Dileep Padgaonkar
(1944-2016)

Dileep Padgaonkar (b.1944-d.2016) was a veteran journalist, editor, and author. He was best known for his work as the editor of The Times of India, where he oversaw the newspaper's transition into digital publication. He was a prominent commentator on Indian politics and society and wrote extensively on a wide range of topics including literature, culture, and international affairs.

Padgaonkar graduated in Political Science from Fergusson College, Pune, and went to France for further studies. After receiving a doctorate in humanities from the University of Paris, Sorbonne (June 1968), he joined The Times of India as its Paris correspondent, where he covered the May 1968 civil rights movement that spread through the entire Europe.

From 1978-1986, Padgaonkar took a break from The Times of India to serve at UNESCO, first in Bangkok and later at its headquarters in Paris. In 1988, he returned to The Times of India and served the paper in various capacities where he quickly rose through the ranks to become its editor. As the editor, he played a key role in shaping the direction of the newspaper. He also worked to strengthen the paper's coverage of national and international news and focused on providing an in-depth analysis and commentary on current events.

In 1994, Padgaonkar left The Times of India to work independently. He filled many roles wherein he started an independent media venture, Asia-Pacific Communication Associates (APCA) as its chairman; produced a breakfast show in Kashmiri in Srinagar; brought out three newspapers in English, Nepali and French in Nepal and Mauritius. In 1995, he started Biblio, a book-magazine which reviewed an extensive range of fiction and non-fiction works. Between 1998-2002, his association with The Times of India again continued as he was appointed executive managing editor and consulting editor thereafter.

In recognition of his excellent services to journalism, Padgaonkar was awarded the Legion d'Honneur, France's highest civilian award, by President Jacques Chirac in April 2002. In 2006, he was appointed as a member of the National Commission for Minorities by the Government of India for a period of three years. Meanwhile, in 2008, he was also appointed as the editor of India and Global Affairs, an international journal.

In 2010, the Government of India appointed Padgaonkar as a chairman of the three-member interlocutors' panel along with Prof. Radha Kumar and Prof. M.M. Ansari to seek a political settlement in Jammu and Kashmir. During the period, he interviewed several people and politicians of the state.

In addition to his work as a journalist, Padgaonkar was a prolific writer, a commentator and a frequent contributor to various magazines and newspapers on topics such as film, gastronomy and politics. He conducted several interviews with national and international politicians, writers, film makers and thinkers such as Amartya Sen, Vaclav Havel, Regis Debray, Louis Malle, V.S. Naipaul, Salman Rushdie, Orhan Pamuk, M.N. Srinivas, Nirad C. Chaudhuri, D.D. Kosambi, and others. He also authored a book Under Her Spell (2008) in which he traced the life of famous Italian film director Roberto Rossellini and his trip to India in 1950s.
